HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Norway and Good Reason for It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy, After years of backache suffering, Days of misery, nights of unrest, The distress of urinary troubles, When she finds freedom.

Many readers will profit by the following:

Mrs. C. L. Hervey, Peaks Island, Me., says: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone who has disordered kidneys or a lame back. These were my troubles for three years. I tried everything I thought would help me, but seemed to get worse instead of better. I had heard Doan's Kidney Pills spoken of highly by a number of neighbors and finally I began using them. The results both surprised and delighted me. I began to get better at once and in six weeks not a symptom of my trouble remained."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

Who Will Care for Mother Now?

Why am I so weak and weary, So low and so blue, All around me seems darkness, Tell me, comfort, is this death? Ah! well, I knew your answer, To my fate I'll meekly bow, If you'll only tell me truly, Who will care for mother now?

Soon with angels I'll be marching, With bright harp on my brow, I have for my country fallen, Who will care for mother now? Who will comfort her in sorrow, Who will dry the falling tear, Gently smooth her wrinkled forehead, Who will whisper words of cheer? Even now, I think I see her, Kneeling, praying for me, how Can I leave her in her anguish, Who will care for mother now?

Let this knapsack be my pillow, And my mantle be the sky, Hasten, comrades, to the battle, I will like a soldier die, Soon with angels I'll be marching, With bright harp on my brow, I have for my country fallen, Who will care for mother now?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., a brand but shallow basket on her head, and in it with legs securely tied, eight young pullets which she offered us for sale.

Following the course of the Wag Water river which led us by devious way, we caught a glimpse over the side of women washing clothes in its limpid stream; without tub, wringer or boiler, the clothes, beautifully clean, fluttered, drying on bush and sward.

Little children with flower filled hands followed at carriages positioning for a cent; even when refused they still smiled sweetly, and awaited the next corner with unfailing optimism.

The Myrtle Bank Hotel appeared to be the hostelry most favored and opened wide its hospitable doors to the officers and passengers of the Laurentic, greeting them as long lost friends and brothers. The evening was devoted by many to the enjoyment of music and dancing, the celebrated W. I. band being in attendance. The shore of Kingston looked clean and inviting and as lighter clothing had become a necessity, they were well patronized.

Steaming away from Kingston we were saddened to see a good sized steamer, a large and comfortable light-house. Someone who claimed to be conversant with the facts told us the accident happened some three years ago; that the vessel belonged to the Hamburg-American Line, that the captain mistook the light. She had passengers on board, come to view the ruins of St. Pierre; that all were saved but the captain, who, in de pair at the loss of his ship, shot himself. In answer to further inquiry, said she remained where she was because it would cost more than she was worth to float her again.

January 31st saw us enroute to Panama, that vast amphitheatre, towards which all eyes are directed. The distance between Kingston and Panama was 552 miles and we were privileged to stay 48 hours.

Friday morning soon after eight of the clock we were along side the dock at Colon. After medical inspection we were allowed on shore and at 9:30 a. m. were on special train which was run over the construction tracks and made stops at the most important points.

At Gatun Lock and Culabra Cut almost all the passengers left the train, the better to inspect the work of man. Every mechanical device to assist labor seems to have been employed, and the muscles of thousands of laborers strained to the utmost. There is such a hustle and bustle, digging, delving and blasting; cars loaded with broken stone darting hither and thither. Such a clanking of iron jams, such a robbing of Peter to pay Paul.

Such a rearing up of the structure in one place as excavating in another, as witness the massive locks and Culabra Cut. All these forces at work systematically, guided by those captains of industry, who have the brains to plan and the power to execute. Talk about capital and labor at work for profit. Here you see on a stupendous scale how necessary one is to the other, combined, how marvelous their strength. These thousands of laborers, with intellect only sufficient to perform a set task. Behind them, the men who lie awake nights planning the work of the coming day, and back of them the nation as paymaster, rewarding each according to his merit.

About 35,000 men are employed on the canal and the mechanical apparatus is in proportional magnitude. The Commissary department must find the high cost of living an important factor to surmount. The following prices are quoted for a copy of the Panama Morning Journal dated Feb. 23, 1912.

Yams, $5 per 100, 1 lb. 7½¢
Corn, $3.50 per 100 lbs., 50¢ per lb.
Cabbage, $10 per 100, 10¢ lb.
Peas, $10 per 100, 10¢ each.
Grapes, $15 per barrel, 60¢ lb.
Eggs, 70¢ per dozen, 3 for 20¢.
Cheese, $70 per 100 lbs., 80¢ per lb.
Pineapples, $5.50 per doz., 40¢ each.
Flour, $4 to $7 per 100 lbs., 10¢ lb.
White beans, $12 per 100 lbs., 20¢ lb.
Spanish peas, $15 per 100 lbs., 20¢.
Coffee, $20 per 100 lbs., 45¢ lb.
Macaroni, 15¢ lb.
Lard, 30¢ lb.

The Isthmus is somewhat flat and marshy in appearance covered with a wealth of vegetation that gives it an almost jungle-like appearance and which will yield marvelous results under cultivation. Indeed, so prolific is the growth that the ditches have to be cleared out frequently and the refuse burned. Every little while we would pass such fine crackling and blazing right merrily, and still other places where vegetation was blackened and oily from having had a bath of petroleum. If there were any mosquitoes on the Isthmus we failed to see them.

The Cruise of the S. S. Laurentic.

As Told by One of the Passengers. No. III.

If the Laurentic is due at a certain port at a certain time she will be there, so it was that we entered Kingston harbor, distant 277 miles from Haiti, on the 20th day of January.

Here the ship was tied to the wharf and passengers came and went to their hearts content. Kingston is a beautiful place and in point of cleanliness the reverse of our port of call. Of the two excursions possible to take in the limited time, the greater number chose the one to Castleton Gardens. The remaining preferring Port Antonio as their objective point as it combined the fascinations of a harbor illumination and ball.

Those who visited Castleton Gardens were well content, the drive of eighteen miles revealing all the beauties of tropical growth; palm trees laden with breadfruit or cocoa nuts according to their variety; trees with cocoa pod, somewhat resembling in contour and coloring a partially ripened cucumber, depending from their branches; groves of bananas; fields of sugarcane and of tobacco plants; yams, the vines clinging for support to bamboo poles; Century plants, cacti, ferns and orchids innumerable. We met colored women on their way to market, walking, leading the heavily laden donkey.

We passed women on the roadside breaking stone, chipping it into small pieces half the size of eggs. The guide informed us they were paid at the rate of six cents a barrel and that some women could break six or seven barrels full a day. We saw women on the top of buildings carrying bricks and mortar; on the coal piles helping at the unloading of vessels; women with heavy baskets on their heads, walking with chickens and geese most admirably. "Truly," remarked a passenger, "this is a land of woman suffering, she can do anything she has a mind to do."

Just then attention was called to the "latest things in hats," a woman carrying a broad but shallow basket on her head, and in it with legs securely tied, eight young pullets which she offered us for sale.

Following the course of the Wag Water river which led us by devious way, we caught a glimpse over the side of women washing clothes in its limpid stream; without tub, wringer or boiler, the clothes, beautifully clean, fluttered, drying on bush and sward.

Little children with flower filled hands followed at carriages positioning for a cent; even when refused they still smiled sweetly, and awaited the next corner with unfailing optimism.

In Memory of Our Soldier Dead.

Day by day their ranks are thinning, One by one they disappear, And at each succeeding roll call, Fewer voices answer "Here!"
May 30 is a day sacred to the memory of the soldiers of the Civil War. The surviving comrades of those whose graves are to be strewn with flowers conduct the ceremonies. They lay the blossoms there and place the flags at the head and foot of each sleeping hero with an emotion and a personal feeling that the younger generation does not experience, for those departed ones were their friends and associates.
They camped and marched and suffered together; they fought side by side and some were taken and others left. But the days when they were all alive together seem near to these veterans, though half a century has come and gone since the parting, and the tears that come to their eyes each Memorial day are tears of tender regret and mourning for friends and brethren who have passed beyond. "What the boys of '61 did is so much a part of history that the merest child knows something of it; the story of their services, their sacrifices and the wonderful results, direct and indirect, shown in the present day development of our nation, these things have been so incorporated into the consciousness of the generations succeeding the war that they not only appreciate the services and the struggles of the soldiers, living and dead, but have imbibed something of their spirit.
Thanks be to God for the victory blest; From the havoc of war's surcease, The drum and the file bring thoughts of strife, But flowers bring dreams of peace.
It is fitting that those who gave their lives for their country should be remembered, and no more appropriate tribute could be paid them than found in the ceremonies of Memorial day.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

The Mystery club and a few invited guests met with Mrs. Phillip K. Bradbury at her home at 37 Main street, on Wednesday evening, May 23d, and they enjoyed a right royal good time. Refreshments were served and an entertainment with music was given.

The last meeting before the summer vacation of Abigail Whitman Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held with Mrs. Laura A. Sanborn as hostess, Wednesday evening, June 5th. The literary part of the program calls for Patriotic selections.

During the heavy thunder shower Friday evening, the house of Frank Dow, near Hicks crossing, was struck by lightning. Mrs. Dow, who is ill and in bed in the front room, saw the bolt as it hit the piano and passed through the room. Lafayette Dow was near the piano and was thrown to the corner of the room, while Mr. Dow, who was near the table, was made unconscious for some few minutes. The house was not set on fire and was but slightly damaged. The piano was badly damaged and a number of articles of furniture.

Memorial Services.

The annual Memorial Sunday services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Universalist church. The altar was prettily decorated with flags and apple blossoms and potted plants.

Harry Rust Post, G. A. R., and Relief Corps attended the services in a body and entered the auditorium as the choir sang The Star-Spangled Banner. The music for the afternoon appropriate to the day was furnished by the choir, composed of Mrs. Frank Kimball, Mrs. Clarence DeCoster, Roy Davis and Ralph Edwards, and was very pleasingly rendered.

Rev. Merrill C. Ward delivered the memorial sermon. He took for his text 2 Timothy 4:7, "I have fought a good fight." Mr. Ward extended a cordial welcome to the visiting orders. He said in part: "Memorial day is a good climax of spring and on this day the memories of all seem more vivid. It has been 50 years since the war, but we will never forget what you did. You fought that there should be union and not separate sectional governments, so the country should not be divided. During the time your sacrifices of home comforts, the privation of friends and the sacrifice of life were many."

"I implore you to tell and to write out full accounts of all you can remember of what happened in field and camp during the war, and in years to come these accounts will be treasured and will pass into history. Teach the boys and girls, give public campfires and tell what occurred during those four years you fought and bled for the country."

"Norway has reason to be proud of her list of volunteers. Its company was among the first on the field, and a Norway soldier the first to fall. A large number were among the officers and in all over 200 from this vicinity left their village homes or hillside farms to go to the front, and 44 gave their lives." And how well it is for us to observe these memorial days.

"On the other hand you will find great devotion by those who remained at home, and we should pay a tribute to the women. In this conflict great issues were at stake and you proved that you would comply to the will of the majority, and that government is by the people and for the people, which is a necessary part of the people's business and faith clashed and men left their business and proved that faith was the strong factor. The spirit that moved you to the front was one of faith, hope and love."

"Much credit, I believe is due the private soldier who gave their lives and did the most and they cannot be too greatly prized."

Mr. Ward closed his address by citing several illustrative stories showing the patriotic spirit of the soldiers and the way in which many gave their lives for their fellow countrymen.

Memorial Day should have all the respect and reverence that can be brought to it. For several years the exercises have been interrupted by children going out of the ball during the exercises. Some have been in and out of the ball several times. Of course this is thoughtless on the part of the children and if parents and teachers would call their attention to the day, what it means and what it is for, we feel they would bring to the day a different spirit. It is a holiday, but a holiday in reverence of our soldiers' dead. It is not a day for games. It is not a day for pleasure. It is a day set apart to the saviors of our country. It is our friends. The day is in memory of our dead friends.

Fraud Paint.

The worst mistake one is likely to make in painting is wrong paint. It is easy to make this year when paint is so high.

We all say "Ours is the best" and there are 1000 of us. One is best; but a dozen are so near on a level that no one knows, for sure, that his is the one.

The worst paints are worst liars; they know what they are, put on a bold face, and brazen it out.

Their one true argument is low price; but low price paint is always, must be, a fraud; it is made to cheat cheatable people.

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.: "I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse one spell when I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."

Mrs. BERTHA MUFF, 503 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Learn to Do Something Well.

The Work and Pay Will Come.

Excerpts from an address delivered by Dan O. Seltz, Business Manager of the New York World, at the B. E. H. S. for Men—classes in Advertising and Salesmanship.

At the beginning of his address Mr. Seltz declared his conviction as "that great art of conveying from one person to another person something that person wants."

"When the new World Building was opened, I remarked to the contractor who had charge of the stone work, pointing to a beautiful piece of marble to the counter, 'I wonder what kind of stone that is?' Mr. Eiseley, drawing back slowly, made a very low bow to the counter and said: 'It is a piece of stone.' 'It is Pentelion—Athens was built of it.' He worshipped the stone and loved it."

"The man who put in the masonry worshipped his wood." This is Seltz's definition of a salesman. "He is darker and richer as the years go by. There is nothing like it in the world." I have watched that mahogany now for nearly three years, and I find that what he said was true—it does become darker and richer with the passing of time. The man loved his wood as the stone cutter loved his stone.

"I have an old edition of Shakespeare, presented to me by Mr. Pulitzer some years ago, on the fly leaf which Mr. Pulitzer has lovingly inscribed the story of the book; described it as carefully as though he were tracing the pedigree of a noble lord. He loved his books and knew his books."

"Know your book! After all, that is the sign manual of salesmanship. A man who won't take the time or hasn't the interest to take his customer in hand and point out the interesting features of his goods is not fit to be a salesman. There is always something interesting about your goods if you want to take the trouble to find it out. A man once said to me that he didn't know what to do, to which I replied, 'If you will go out and take your spade and cut a square foot of sod from beside the road, and that piece of sod you will be fully occupied for at least three months and you will become a very wise man.'"

"There is not an article in your store but is full of interest when you know all about it. The wool in your coat, for example; where was it grown, who raised the sheep, where was it spun and woven? Or the linen in your shirt; where was the hemp grown; who grew it; how was it made into a thread? Every one of these things would make an interesting story and will educate your customers, and to know them all will make you a man of knowledge."

"In Japan, where I bought three suits of clothes for the price I would have to pay for one here, the tailor who sold me the goods knew all about them. He knew the story of his goods from the sheep's back to the finished product. The man who sold me silk knew his goods—knew them from the cocoon to the dyed cloth."

"Some people say that life is too short to do these things. Life is not a bit too short to learn all you can. That 'Knowledge is power' is more than a trite proverb."

"You would be surprised to know how much diversion there is in being interested in the thing you are doing. Do not regard it as a wearisome thing. You could write a book about every article of goods in Matthews's store, starting from the beginning. Where did the thread come from; who raised the sheep from which the wool was cut; what were the processes of manufacture? And so on through the list of goods in the store. It would astonish you to know how much you could know about the goods you handle."

Mr. Seltz drew a most interesting and instructive comparison between the methods of disposing of goods through retail channels in the various countries through which he has travelled. His vivid contrast between the great French store, the Bon Marche, and the famous co-operative Army and Navy Store of England was particularly striking. He said in part:

"While in Paris I went with our Paris correspondent to visit the Bon Marche. He told me that before we would be in the store five minutes we would be approached by some one who spoke English clearly and fluently. As a matter of fact, we were scarcely three minutes in the store before a suave, courteous gentleman saluted us in perfect English, 'Good morning, gentlemen. What can I show you?' Upon informing him that we wanted the glove department, he conducted us to a glove counter in charge of an old man, who, we were told, has been in that position for more than thirty years, and would be retired in another year with a comfortable pension for the remainder of his life. He showed us all the various styles of gloves, the cheap ones, good ones, the kind of gloves one should wear, and so on, explaining all the characteristics that marked their different grades. By 'I have been in the store for thirty years, and I have never been an old reporter, I could have written quite an interesting essay on gloves. 'It would seem that their idea is to educate their customers so that when they call again they will know exactly what they want and thereby effect their purchases with greater celerity.'"

"In London I sought for a particular texture of underwear that is made in England and which I was in the habit of wearing. Of the many shops I visited I was unable to find the goods I wanted. I found it in five seconds at the Bon Marche."

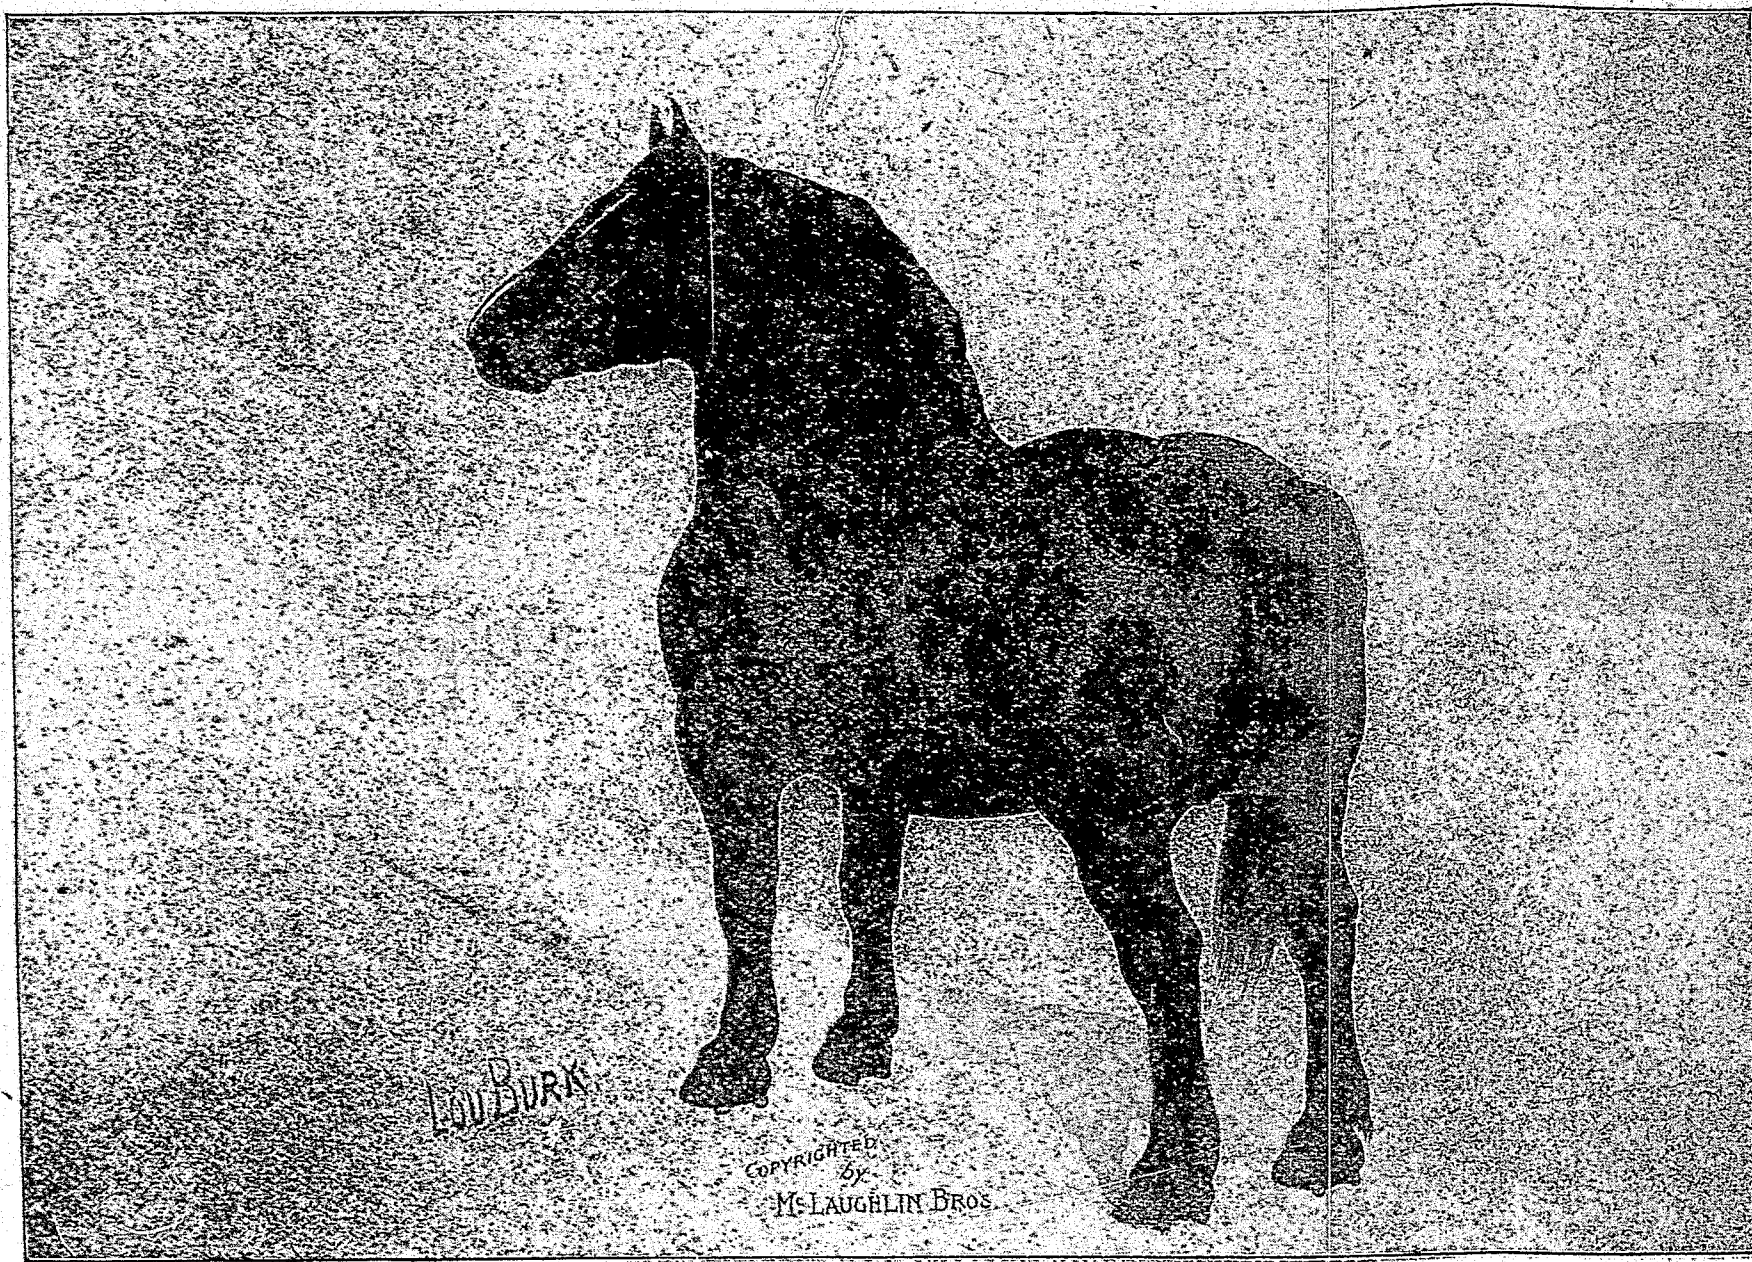

"In the great co-operative store, the Army and Navy, one must go about until he finds what he wants and then struggle with the clerk in order to get it away from him. There is no courtesy or politeness and none of the clerks seem to know where anything is."

"Some people are afraid of doing more than they are paid for. No one will ever be paid more if they do not do more than they are paid for. You have to establish your worth yourself."

"It was Mr. Pulitzer's policy that when he promoted a man he rarely increased his salary at the same time, believing that his promotion was enough advancement until he found out whether he had guessed right in selecting his man. Many a man with a bright future before him has been dropped because he would not wait until it could be determined whether he was promoting him without increasing his salary he had not mistaken his ability. After a man proves his worth his salary is raised accordingly, but you can never tell what a man is going to be able to do until he has a chance to do it."

"In my experience I have always noticed that the boy who gets

VASISTAS, the imported Percheron Stallion will make the season of 1912 at the stable of V. E. DUNN, Norway, Me. Commencing May 24 VASISTAS will stand at the stable of HENRY M. MOXEY of Bridgton, Friday of each week.

VASISTAS 41611, 56634

VASISTAS was foaled May 12, 1902, bred in France, and was approved by the French Government to stand for public service in France. He is a typical draft horse of the highest quality, possessing in an extraordinary degree all the qualities most sought for in a perfect draft horse sire. With his excellent individual merit he has the very best of breeding, his immediate ancestors on both sire's and dam's sides being the most noted prize winners and breeders in France. Vasistas comes from the stud of the noted breeder, M. Charles Aveline, President of the Percheron Society in France. In color Vasistas is black with strip in face; weighs 1700 pounds. This horse has to his credit the best colts in the state of Maine. This horse has a fine disposition, is fearless, a good worker and an extra good driver for a heavy horse. Will serve a limited number of approved mares.

Fee: $20.00 to warrant. Mares boarded at reasonable prices. Mares disposed of will be considered in foal. Accidents at owner's risk. All colts holden for service fee. Owned by the Norway Percheron Horse Breeders' Association, Norway, Maine, V. E. DUNN, Manager.

DRUNKENNESS IS A DISEASE AND WE CAN CURE IT.

Most men who drink to excess do so because they cannot help it; they are controlled by a craving which is practically irresistible. This is a diseased condition, but can be and is promptly relieved.

How? By taking the KEELEY TREATMENT AT A KEELEY INSTITUTE, the only place to get it and the only treatment which cures alcoholic and drug inebriety.

The "KEELEY CURE" removes the craving for liquor and drugs and leaves the man master of himself. The system is rational, it embodies no suffering of sickness, no absurd or preposterous claims are made; the hypodermic method of treatment is constantly used, which, according to all reputable physicians, is safe, painless, prompt, and efficient.

The "KEELEY CURE" does not nauseate a patient and no attempt is made to cure inebriates by creating a disgust for liquor. A treatment depending upon nauseants or emetics for a cure can never be anything but a failure because the patient will soon learn that it is not the liquor which nauseates him but that he has been made the victim of a trick; the diseased condition not being relieved the patient naturally goes back to liquor.

The diseased condition produced by from five to thirty years constant or periodical use of liquor cannot be cured by a few days of nausea and emesis. Such methods are irrational, brutal, and sometimes permanently injurious.

The "KEELEY CURE" has restored over 400,000 men and women who were addicted to liquors and drugs; it is the pioneer in this work and has many imitators, but no rivals or competitors as far as RESULTS are concerned.

If you have need to take treatment for the liquor or drug addiction, investigate the "KEELEY CURE" look for some thing that is substantial and has stood the test of time. Where health and happiness are concerned you cannot afford to experiment or take chances, and for that reason you cannot afford to take any treatment but the "KEELEY."

All correspondence is strictly confidential and all inquiries answered in plain sealed envelopes.
